Liberum establishes a dedicated M&A team

Tim Medak and Mark Harrison join as Co-Heads of M&A

(LONDON) Liberum, the independently-owned provider of investment banking, research, sales and trading, announces that it has appointed Tim Medak and Mark Harrison as Co-Heads of M&A within its Investment Banking team. They will take up the role with immediate effect and will report into Richard Crawley, Head of Investment Banking.

Medak and Harrison join from their own boutique corporate finance firm having previously worked together in senior roles at Stifel, EY and HSBC and separately at Houlihan Lokey, Barings, Hill Samuel, Lazards and PWC (where both qualified as chartered accountants). Together they bring over 65 years' experience of leading a combination of complex public, private and distressed M&A transactions and will provide significant expertise in enhancing Liberum's M&A capabilities.

At Liberum they will lead the development and growth of the firm's M&A practice, seeking to leverage Liberum's capital markets insights and strong corporate and institutional relationships to provide market leading buy-side and sell-side advice to listed companies, private equity and entrepreneur-owned businesses across a full range of M&A situations.

Bidhi Bhoma, CEO of Liberum, commented: "Tim and Mark are fantastic additions to the Liberum team and I am excited about the experience they can bring to bear on the M&A practice as we look to strengthen this part of our offering. We believe that there is a great opportunity for Liberum to take a more active role in the M&A space to complement our market leading capital markets expertise and by bringing our unique approach and well-established relationships to clients."
